Forty years of change in Observer ads

ith iPhone poised I frame the scene. Standing on the east bank of the Huron River near Argo Canoe Livery, I see three yellow kayaks head off downriver. It's a pretty summer riverscape. With a touch to the phone's glass, the photograph is taken. After a few swipes and taps, my pic is posted to Facebook, complete with caption. Within seconds, I see that my daughter "likes" it.

I could be lulled into believing this happy iPhone maneuver has been a part of my life for a long time, second nature now. But in reality all the technical wonders we take for granted every minute of every day have been a part of our lives for only a short time.

Coming up on our fortieth anniversary, we took a look back through our nearly 500 issues. And what we found was a story, told through ads and editorial content, about the rise of all our present-day wizardry. When we started out, there were not only no cell phones but no answering machines. But you could pay someone to answer your calls.

How quickly we have taken for granted these devices: answering machines, personal computers and printers, email, calculators, cell phones, smart phones with their apps, microwaves, electronic fences for pets, recording devices, video games, faxes, home theaters and flat-screen televisions, digital cameras, and CDs and DVDs.

Thirty-nine years ago, when the first 12-page issue of the Ann Arbor Observer rolled off the press, the action I performed effortlessly on my iPhone was nary a glimmer in anyone's mind. The highest-tech reference in that first Observer was a blurb on page eight, complete with photo, on the snazzy new Xerox 9200, ready to spit out two copies per second at Albert's Copying. Despite the buzz brought on by the top-of-the-line ad-

n a recent sunny Sunday afternoon the on a recent sunny Sunday afternoon the polyphonic rock melodies of the Pink Floyd band floated out of an upstairs room in the yellow brick office building on East University between Ann Arbor Bank and the Falafil Palace restaurant. In that musicfilled room, Chris Midgley, the nineteen-year-old founder and president of Datalab Inc., zeroes in on the keyboard of his MIME-I computer terminal.

A slender young man with a red sweat band holding shoulder-length brown hair out of his eyes, Midgley wears a comfortable corduroy shirt over a Jackson Hole Tshirt. Clear-eyed and self-possessed, he shows us around Datalab's rented threeroom suite - a bare-bones but neat officeworkshop where homemade plywood tables worth of business in the near future.

Chris Midgley has been putting in ten to twelve hour workdays, Sundays included, almost from the moment he first walked into Community High's computer lab at age thirteen and became fascinated with the world of data processing. "Before that, I was into magic," he says.

Teacher Ed Herstein offered an openended learning program where experimentation and discussion sometimes lasted into the night. Midgley spent much of his fouryear high school career working from 6 PM to 6 AM at U-M terminals whose daytime operators were home at rest.

Graduating in 1978, he turned his back for the moment on a U-M letter of acceptance and talked his parents into under Parallel to technical advances over the years were the cultural changes in Ann Arbor life, forever altered because of personal computers and cell phones, cable television, CDs and DVDs, allowing a new way of doing just about everything.

In 1978 the Ann Arbor Observer held an ominous article, "It's 1984 on Maynard Street," reporting on the video cameras installed in the parking structure there.

Another big story in April 1980 told how cable television came to Ann Arbor. The article showcased Ben Hooks, pictured as the venerable TV savior high atop a utility pole, and how he enabled Ann Arborites to join the "cable revolution." And in July 1983, "Video Game Whiz" told us about the passionate 14-year-old boy who played at Mickey Rat's Video Circus on William. The written description of a game illustrates how new the concept was to the Observer's readers. "The first [game] was called Pole Position, a rather realistic racing car game in which the player's major tools are a foot accelerator and a large steering wheel. On the screen is a quickly changing view of the road ahead.'

Being a university town helped because technology belonged to the young. Innovations in all aspects of the tech world spawned here. Chris Midgley, a 19-yearold when a 1980 article was written, designed computer programs for Datalab, the company he founded two years earlier. "The firm's first major product is an eight-inch, $250 magnetic disk that looks like a brown phonograph record without grooves," the article said, describing an early floppy disk. Midgley, now 54, has excelled in the tech world as founder of six more companies and is the holder of several patents.

A feature article in October 1987 showcased Larry Brilliant, whose company lost more than $20 million trying to bring computer conferencing software to the corporate world. Brilliant's explanation for his troubles: "The problem is that many people—especially influential ones in the corporate world-consider typing beneath their dignity."

The Post Office came on board with technology in 1989. The Environmental Research Institute of Michigan (ERIM) worked with the Post Office to automate their mail sorting. Company president Bill Brown explained they'd developed a computer system that could read "handwritten zip code. It's a very, very difficult vision problem, it's never been done before, and we're doing it very well."

Slowly but surely people caught on to connecting with each other online, first through computer bulletin boards and classified ads. An article in Around Town December 1991, entitled "Computer Par-

Five years later came an article about electronic classifieds and "the joy of online shopping." For a time online shopping remained most common in the then-familiar form of classified ads-a long way from the retailing blitz we know now.

Families changed, too, some more than others. In the December 1997 issue was a story about Joan and Will Weber, whose "ecotour" company then led hundreds of trips each year to forty-five countries. The couple was about to embark on a monthslong trip through Southeast Asia and Australia while their two children, ages fifteen and ten, continued their education on the road with the aid of laptops. system established by early computer programmers would crash the world's computers as the century rolled over.

Once New Year's Eve came and went without any technical dramas, Ann Arborites settled in to the business of living with technology, with some good and some bad results. At Washtenaw Community College, according to a January 2000 article, a "flood of webmasters" caused the school to add an entire department based on the new industry. In sadder news, in 2001 the SKR Records "empire" crumbled, a casualty of (mostly pirated) digital music. That year, an Observer Up Front story in August noted how Beautiful Island, a "dotcom" company set up with the express purpose of teaching senior citizens how to use computers, crashed and burned like a 'dot-bomb.'"

The new millennium was the cell phone's time to shine. Huge over-theshoulder boxes and clunky things with retractable antennae gave way to pocket-size phones-which in turn evolved into today's go-to devices for talk, text, web browsing, alarms, Facebooking, emailing, TV, movie-watching, and literally millions of other apps.

One of the things we look up on the Internet is lists. Lists can be found on every conceivable topic, including goofy pets, stunning photographs, bizarre people, and city lists. Ann Arbor shows up consistently on those, including "10 Smartest Cities" and "Best Green Places" and "Great Cities for Raising Families." SPARK, the local business support organization, posted a "Facts and Rankings" list (of course a list!) of 117 online lists the city has appeared on since 2006.

Neighborhoods

The playground at Eberwhite Elementary School backs up to the neighborhood's namesake woods.

The bar graph at lower right sorts local single-family home sales into six broad price ranges. It's based on 1,136 sales reported by Realtors in the Ann Arbor School District between June 1, 2014 and May 31, 2015.

On the following pages, nineteen additional bar graphs further subdivide sales within each of the district's elementary school neighborhoods according to the same price ranges. Each graph also lists the median selling price (half cost less, half cost more) and the median number of days it took to sell a home there.

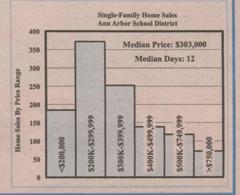

The number of sales dipped during the latest period, from 1,204 in the previous twelve months. But as the median selling price rose 6 percent, from $285,000 to $303,000, the total value of the sales added up to $408, up $2 million from the previous "school year." The median selling price per square foot of living space also rose, from $164 to $175

Evidence of an incredibly intense demand for homes can be found in the astonishing speed with which homes were sold. The median number of days it took to sell a home in the Ann Arbor school district dropped year to year from 45 days to just 12 days. The quickest elementary districts of the bunch-Bach, Dicken, and Lawton-took just eight short days from the date a home was listed for sale until a sales contract was signed. Hardly a slowpoke, Angell placed last in the frantic race by taking all of 21 days.

Comparing one neighborhood to another is complicated, because an elementary school district's rank depends upon which metric you choose. For example, 127 homes were sold in the sprawling Bryant-Pattengill neighborhood, so it was the busiest by this measure. With only 31 sales, the King neighborhood was the quietest. Looking at price rather than volume, Angell's median, $665,000, was the most expensive, while Pittsfield's $184,000 was the most affordable. Ranked yet another way, Bach's homes sold for the highest median price per square foot, scoring $249, more than twice Pittsfield's $118.

-Kevin Duke

A running joke in Michigan is that Ann Arbor is 25 square miles surrounded by reality. A college town of 117,000 perched between a sprawling metropolis and green farm fields, it has as many Buddhist temples as Catholic churches, and more coffeehouses per capita than almost any other noncoastal American locale. Ann Arbor votes so reliably for Democrats that Republicans rarely even bother to run.

The city's quirky reputation is accompanied by an unusual combination of cultural attractions, solid family neighborhoods, and livability. In most Ann Arbor neighborhoods kids can walk to their elementary school or a nearby park. Though many residents are alarmed about sprawl and traffic congestion, Ann Arbor retains a vital downtown and a bevy of fine neighborhoods with a wide diversity of housing stock

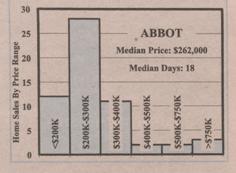

This section describes homes, condos, and apartments by neighborhood, as well as cohousing, senior housing, and manufactured housing options in the Ann Arbor school district (which goes well beyond the city limits). For searchable listings of Ann Arbor apartments, including rents, photos, and much more, visit arborweb.rentlinx.com.

Neighborhoods are listed alphabetically based on elementary school attendance areas.

ABBOT

Smaller ranch homes abound on the flat, quiet streets of Ann Arbor's affordable and family-friendly Abbot neighborhood on the northwest side. North and west of M-14, newer rural residential development mixes with farmland between Wagner and Zeeb; these Scio Township lots are typically big enough to require a

Around the school itself, the Hollywood Park subdivision is conveniently close to highway access ramps and the commercial strip along Maple and Stadium, which includes 2 groceries: upscale Plum Market and discount ALDI. A major apartment complex, 328-unit Arbor Landings, is discreetly tucked away off Dexter west of Maple. At its westernmost point, Abbot's district dips south of Jackson to take in most of the Scio Farms manufactured home community (a few blocks in this neighborhood are assigned to Haisley School). Abbot schoolchildren graduate to Forsythe Middle School and Skyline High.

ALLEN

Allen Elementary is well hidden in a quiet southeast neighborhood of sturdy brick ranches, colonials, and tri-levels behind historic Cobblestone Farm and yearround city recreation favorite Buhr Park, which features a swimming pool, outdoor ice rink, and sports

The single-family neighborhoods north of Washtenaw have a split personality: unpaved streets and large, wooded lots give the homes on Chalmers and Woodland a country feel, in contrast to the bigger, newer houses of the Woodcreek subdivision. The same contrast is visible north along the river, where tract mansions tower over the smaller, custom-built homes of the post-WWII Thornoaks sub. South of Michigan Ave. is the Hickory Pointe subdivision with its 65 homes, 5 parks, and swim club.

The Allen district includes the ranch-style 103-unit Carleton Court apartments at Packard and Platt. Students also are bused in from 3 huge rental complexes south of I-94: the 582-unit Pines of Cloverlane and 440-unit Hamptons of Cloverlane, both off Michigan Ave., and the affordable 609-unit University Townhouses co-op on Ellsworth.

Depending on their neighborhood, Allen grads go on to Scarlett or Tappan, and from there to Huron or Pioneer.

ANGELL

Housing around Angell School shades from fraternities near campus to increasingly expensive homes to the north and east. Bordering on the thousand-acre Nichols Arboretum, a wooded natural area sloping down to the Huron River, Angell is the city's most expensive neighborhood, with stately mansions and large, secluded homes.

East of the Arb, the streets north of Geddes are lined with large, stately older homes built in the 1920s and 1930s. Perched on the slopes overlooking the river are newer custom-built houses, many in mid-century Modern styles. South of Geddes are the winding,

Hidden Sights: Vegetated Swales

Storm sewers come up a lot when sustainability is discussed: they take every bit of poison we put on the ground, concentrate it, and put it into our waterways. There has to be a better way, and Ann Arbor is trying one along the optimistically named Easy St., off Packard in the Allen School neighborhood in southeast Ann Arbor. The drains have mostly been replaced by "porous pavers"—sixfoot-wide strips of concrete squares, built in lattices so that stormwater can flow into the ground between the cracks.

Does the system overflow in heavy storms? Yes-but no more so than leaf- and trash-clogged storm sewers. And to help keep water away from basements there's a backup: a set of "vegetated swales," depressions in either the setback or the edges of front yards that hold excess water. Residents along the street have stepped up and put flowering plants in these swales, turning a fairly plain subdivision streetscape into something parti-colored and various. I've met visitors who came from the metro Detroit suburbs to see them. New porous pavers and swales are on the way in the subdivision south of Packard, west of Platt.

wooded streets of one of the city's wealthiest neighborhoods, Ann Arbor Hills, with many custom-designed homes.

The Angell district reaches north of the river to include the modernist 360-unit Huron Towers apartments and U-M family housing on North Campus. Children also are bused in from the huge 598-unit Golfside Lakes apartment complex east of US-23.

Angell grads go on to Tappan and Scarlett middle schools and meet up again at Huron High.

Elementary School Attendance Areas

BACH

With their porch swings and bountiful front-yard flower gardens, the homes of the city's Old West Side—just a short walk from downtown—welcome passersby to the heart of the Bach Elementary area, which boasts 13 historic districts within its borders.

Most homes are small Victorians originally built by 19th-century German workmen. Many have been painstakingly restored. In exchange for some of the highest prices per square foot in the city, buyers get shady streets, houses with character, and a fabulous

Also part of Bach are the neighborhoods north of downtown and campus, including the Old Fourth Ward Historic District. Gentrified in spots, with rehabbed single-family homes as well as new homes and condos, the area also has plenty of well-worn student rentals. All are just a few minutes' walk from the Farmers Market, the People's Food Co-op, Zingerman's Deli, and Kerrytown Market & Shops

North of Miller, homes are set close to the sidewalk on narrow lots, with porch sitters, bike riders, and kids playing on the sidewalk. Always racially mixed, this neighborhood has become home to young pro-fessionals. Rentals are common. Nestled in a valley between Huron and Miller, newly renovated West Park has a band shell, a baseball diamond, and on some streets a great view of downtown from sloping

Farther south, single-family bungalows, small ranches, and a few story-and-a-halfs (most built after World War II) thread outward from Allmendinger Park, with its softball diamonds, playground, tennis and basketball courts, and picnic facilities. Lilacs line its

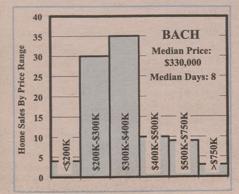

The red-brick buildings of the 207-unit Nob Hill apartment complex fit comfortably into the neighborhood's southern edge. To the east, Bach extends through the downtown all the way to the U-M Diag, including downtown loft apartments and thousands of student rentals in small and medium-sized buildings of every vintage Downtown student apartments are well represented here, with the 99-unit Zaragon West on William and Sterling, 411 Lofts at Washington and Division, the 96-unit Varsity next door, and the 210-unit Foundry Lofts nearing completion north of Huron. The 155-unit Ann Arbor City Apartments at Washington and First and the 164 units at 618 S. Main are the exceptions in this group: their luxury units are not targeted at students. The developer of 618 recently started work on a smaller companion at the corner of Main and Madison.

At 26 stories, the Tower Plaza condominium on William and Maynard is Ann Arbor's tallest building and seems certain to remain so, since the city has height limits for new construction.

Bach School also serves the triangle bounded by South Main, Eisenhower, and Ann Arbor-Saline Rd. Residents of the 306-unit Woodland Mews flats and townhouses (which include both owner-occupied condos and rental units) can walk to Busch's super market and Whole Foods-or to a game at U-M's

Most Bach kids go on to Slauson, but some on the northern edge of the district can choose Forsythe Children in the southern triangle go to Tappan. Bach

My Neighborhood: Bach (downtown)

"I like to make things," says Shannon Kohlitz. The animator and filmmaker hands over prototypes of her latest project: a cardboard cow with movable parts. The walls of her one-bedroom Liberty Lofts unit are covered with other pieces of artwork, some her own, others made by friends, including maps of the U.S. and Australia made from old sweaters, and a cartoon illustration of an allgirls' getaway. Her apartment is cozy, with burnt orange walls, high ceilings, and light wood flooring. The balcony overlooks the neighborhood-the windows were a selling point. "I love looking at these houses-actually it's my homepage photo," she says as she flashes me her phone

The Liberty Lofts fill most of the block defined by First and Second streets, William, and Liberty. Built from and around the former GT Products auto-parts factory, it rises over the Old West Side. The collection of nearby single-family homes, all different, with their green lawns and arching trees, adds to the charm of the apartments. "It feels very much like we're in a neighborhood seeing all these houses here," Kohlitz says. The residents, including herself and her husband Jason Hall, are a mix of younger professionals and older couples who are usually on the move.

Besides the picturesque view, the proximity to downtown was another bonus for the newlyweds. Kohlitz enjoys the "short walk to excitement and work" at her office near State and Liberty. Hall—a part-time professor—walks to the Ross School of Business. The couple got married in their new loft and walked to their wedding reception held at the Beer Grotto.

"It is our home," Kohlitz shyly says. The couple plans on being residents for years to come.

kids who live north of Huron attend Skyline High, while all the rest go to Pioneer.

BRYANT-PATTENGILL

Bryant and Pattengill are paired elementary schools in two south side neighborhoods. The area around Bryant, serving kindergarten through grade 2, offers some of the city's least expensive housing with small ranch homes and multifamily complexes; homes are bigger and more expensive near Pattengill, where kids in both districts go for grades 3–5.

The neighborhoods off Packard include streets of modest and some larger homes, plus apartment and condo complexes. The area surrounding Pattengill, once prime farmland, was built up after World War II. Kimberly Hills, south of Independence, has newer and bigger homes. Southwest of Packard, moderately priced houses built in the 1940s and 1950s are mixed with apartments.

The subdivisions near and south of Eisenhower are slightly more affluent. Tri-levels, ranches, colonials, and Cape Cods sit along winding streets. Georgetown, west of Stone School Rd., has a semi-private golf course, private pool, and tennis courts.

The Bryant neighborhood, just off Ellsworth and Stone School, is built on open and slightly rolling terrain. The school itself is set among the small single-family homes along Champagne, which are some of the least expensive in the city.

South of the interchange of Ann Arbor–Saline Rd. and I-94, in Pittsfield Township, single-family housing predominates in a maze of twisting streets behind the Oak Valley and Waters Place shopping centers. Subs here include Briar Hill, Lake Forest, Lake Forest Highlands, and the new Pines at Lake Forest.

South of Ellsworth are the winding roads of the huge Stonebridge golf course subdivision, with stately executive homes and detached condominiums in a large area that's divided between the Ann Arbor and Saline school districts.

Multifamily housing is also abundant. Small apartment buildings line Packard and E. Stadium. Midsize complexes along Packard include Mulberry Row (120 units), Pine Valley (164 units), Homestead Commons (112 units), and the upscale 134-unit Ponds at Georgetown. Spruce Knob, just to the south off Stone School, adds 168 units. Woodbury Gardens, off Stadium at South Industrial, is one of the city's biggest rental complexes, with 538 units; Arbor Village, behind St. Francis of Assissi Catholic Church, has 237. Five complexes in the Briarwood mall area—Signature Club and Briar Cove south of Eisenhower, and Harbor House, Hidden Valley Club, and Lake Village to the north—add another 1,100 units.

Condos include the 306 affordable townhouses of Forest Hills Cooperative on Ellsworth, the 76-unit Cloverly Village at Ellsworth and Stone School, the 116-unit Georgetown Commons, and a trio of complexes of Ann Arbor–Saline south of I-94: Heatherwood-with 188 2- and 3-bedroom ranches; and Oak Meadows and Weatherstone, each with more than 300 mid-priced units.

All the kids in Bryant-Pattengill go on to Tappan and Pioneer.

BURNS PARK

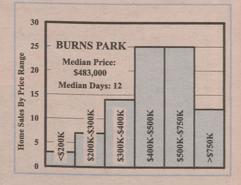

Blocks of tree-canopied streets and beautiful old homes set around a historic park and school—as well as its location near both U-M's campus and downtown—make Burns Park one of the city's most desirable and expensive neighborhoods.

Northeast of the park, the shady streets climb the gentle slopes of the area known as Ives Woods, which has one of the highest median household incomes in Ann Arbor. Even higher in income is the area north of Washtenaw, where expensive homes on large, wooded lots, including some new construction, dot the streets stretching east toward Huron Pkwy.

Burns Park includes the South University business district, home to the 18-story, 240-unit University Towers apartments—ugly to some, but home to Madonna back in the day. After it was built in the 1960s, the city slapped a height limit on the area that lasted forty years. When it was finally lifted in the mid-2000s, developers quickly responded with new luxuy student high-rises, including the ten-story Zaragon Place on East University and the fourteen-story Landmark, catercorner from U Towers. As the City Guide went to press, the 13-story ArborBLU was nearing completion above Pizza House on Church St.

Near Packard and Hill, older houses occupied by longtime residents mingle with large fraternity, sorority, and cooperative houses and student apartment buildings. More student rentals sprinkle "Lower Burns Park" west of Packard, though recent zoning changes seek to halt any further advance. Adults predominate in the 262-unit Ann Arbor Woods apartments on E. Stadium.

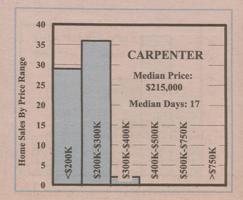

Students from the immediate Burns Park area all go to Tappan Middle School, but then they split, with those north of Washtenaw going to Huron High and the rest to Pioneer. Students also are bused in to Burns Park from Arbor Pointe, with 280 apartments across from Washtenaw Community College, and the huge Glencoe Hills complex, whose 584 units extend from Washtenaw to Clark east of US-23. Students from these areas go on to Scarlett Middle School (except for a few living north of Clark who are in the Clague area) and to Huron High.

CARPENTER

Carpenter Elementary serves two areas of northeast Pittsfield Township, an area long popular for its affordable homes and semi-rural setting. Carpenter grads go on to Scarlett Middle School and Huron High.

The small frame and ranch houses in the original Carpenter School neighborhood were built around World War II. Several generations live on these quiet, flat streets, laid out in a grid between Packard and Washtenaw. Stretches of condos, townhouses, and single-family homes spread along the south side of Packard and in the Arbor Woods subdivision. An older neighborhood of connected shady streets lies west of Golfside.

Neighborhoods

In Burns Park, Brooklyn Ave. turns into Hermitage Rd. east of Ferdon—and comfortable professors' homes give way to full-fledged mansions.

Children along Christina and adjoining streets north of Morgan are bused to Carpenter. So are those in an area between Crane and Golfside along and south of Textile, in the far southeast corner of the school district. South of Ellsworth and west of US-23, where the Carpenter area stretches south of Michigan Ave., a few modest subdivisions alternate with individual homes among acres of surviving farmland. Wellesley Gardens, on Michigan Ave. just west of US-23, has 426 condos, lofts, and townhouses; the Arbor Knoll apartments are next door. To the west, on Stone School south of Ellsworth, are the 200 "upper and lower ranches" of the Woodside Meadows condominium

Dicken is a west side family neighborhood with shady streets and modest 1- and 2-story homes. It includes Dicken Woods, a nature area behind the elementary school that was saved from development by neighbors and is now the site of school and community nature programs.

Small parks are sprinkled throughout the area. Mushroom Park is known for its comical ceramic fungi; Las Vegas Park has a soccer field and playground; and Greenview Park, on the west side of Seventh St., provides a natural retreat for dog walkers and picnickers. On former croplands southwest of I-94 and north of Scio Church the Ravines and Meadowinds subdivision went up at the turn of the century; they have amenities like tennis courts and playgrounds. West of Upland Dr., the 1990s-era Uplands offer slightly larger brick and wood residences, often with decks, and more housing variety, with a mix of modern and traditional styles. Between the Uplands and Wagner Rd. are the upscale home sites of Tuscany Ridge.

Kids are bused to Dicken from the 368-unit Woodchase Apartments off Scio Ridge Rd. Closer to the school are Surrey Park, with 176 ranch-style prefab units, and the older, 312-unit Park Place. Residents here and in the Summit Pointe, Walden Hills, and Walden Village condo complexes on Pauline are close to shopping centers, restaurants, gas stations, and the many stores along Maple and Stadium.

Dicken students go on to attend Slauson Middle School and Pioneer High School.

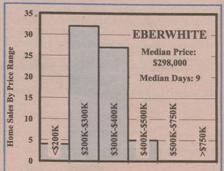

EBERWHITE

Located on the former property of Eber White, an early settler who helped fugitive slaves escape to Canada, this neighborhood has a mix of homes of different eras, all within a few blocks of Eberwhite Woods, one of the city's most beautiful, secluded natural areas.

The school and its grounds were carved out of the southeast corner of the oak-hickory woods in 1950, adjoining a neighborhood of broad, hilly, tree-lined streets and predominantly two-story homes built between the world wars. In the 1960s subdivisions wrapped around the south and west edges, but the woods have remained safe from development, nurtured by a school-based stewardship group. They have walking trails, a profusion of spring wildflowers, and 3 ponds, 1 of which lies in a natural amphitheater and is the site of cacophonous early-spring concerts by frenzied spring peepers.

North of Liberty, the Virginia Park area has many 2-family duplexes and Cape Cods. Behind the strip of commercial businesses and fast-food joints along Stadium is a mixed neighborhood of small homes and apartments. South of Pauline, 1950s- and 1960s-era neighborhoods stretch toward Stadium. The only major apartment complexes in the area are the 120-unit Westwood on Liberty, built in the late 1970s, and the older 174-unit Manchester Flats at Pauline and Stadium. The 32-unit subsidized Pauline Apartments replaced an older complex on the same site in 2014. The small Eagle Ridge and Liberty Heights condominiums face each other across Liberty just east of Stadium.

Eberwhite graduates all go to Slauson Middle School and to Pioneer High, both within walking distance, except for some in the northern part of the area who attend Skyline.

HAISLEY

The area around Haisley Elementary is a close-knit neighborhood of ranches and 1 1/2-story Cape Cods where parents push tots in strollers to nearby Wellington Park and seniors chat with neighbors on front lawns.

Haisley draws from 2 separate areas: the compact neighborhood around the school and the newer subdivisions between Liberty and I-94 in Scio Township.

Neighborhoods

Students in the older neighborhood can choose Forsythe or Slauson middle school; elsewhere, all attend Forsythe. Both areas are Skyline High turf.

Not far from the school, Miller Nature Area is a hidden pocket of woods. During the summer months, neighbors gather to stay cool at Veterans Memorial Park Pool on Jackson near Maple. At the park, the evenings come alive with the crack of bats and the sound of wild cheering as ball teams compete. All ages of rollerblading and skateboarding enthusiasts enjoy the 30,000-square-foot, world-class Ann Arbor Skatepark that is free for the public to use at the northwest corner of the park. In the winter, children slide down the steep hills behind the indoor skating rink.

Outside the beltway in Scio Township, kids are bused in from the new developments along Jackson. Bigbox stores, light industry, and restaurants pack the corridor, providing a commercial node for the condos and subdivisions, in line with the township's plan to concentrate development there and try to preserve rural character elsewhere.

The Polo Fields, off Zeeb north of Liberty, is a classic late 20th-century subdivision, with imposing homes clustering around a golf course and country club. Beyond, Scio's dirt roads are dotted with individual country houses, large and small.

Apartments on Zeeb include the Cambridge Club, with 108 1- and 2-bedroom units, and the 106-unit Scio Village, which has its own nature preserve; the 144-unit Lakestone is hidden away off Parkland behind the Jackson business strip. Haisley also serves the cohousing complexes south of Jackson, and part of the huge Scio Farms manufactured housing community.

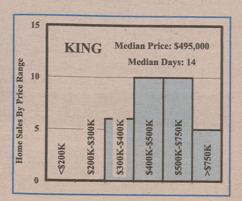

KING

Nestled in an upscale, woodsy 1960s subdivision on the northeast side, King Elementary draws students from both sides of US-23 and is known for its diverse international population with families at the school representing more than 25 countries.

The winding streets north of Glazier offer colonial, ranch, and tri-level homes. Young families, retirees, and single people live in King's mature subdivisions and apartment buildings. On the hilly terrain south of Glazier are contemporary custom-built homes on big lots in natural settings, with neatly landscaped townhouses and condominiums along Huron Pkwy.

East of US-23 is a growing area of low-density development with prime freeway access and office parks. Off Dixboro Rd. are Radrick Meadows and Fleming Creek, both with large single-family homes. Farther east, off Gale, is the retreatlike Matthaei Farm community, with expensive custom-built homes. The new Woodlands of Geddes Glen luxury sub is just north of Geddes. To the south, private drives wind away to carefully isolated riverfront mansions, as well as the elegant Towsley Farms and Geddes Glen developments;

My Neighborhood: Haisley

The side-entry red house with a carport and towering sycamore in the front yard, where Charlie Bradley grew up, is the same house where Bradley and his wife, Claire Stevens, are now raising their sons, eight-year-old Conor and five-year-old Corbin.

Bradley was six years old when his family moved to the home in 1977 from Detroit. He so appreciated the safety, convenience, and fun of the neighborhood he and his siblings enjoyed as kids that he and Stevens, as newlyweds, jumped at the chance to buy it from his parents in 2005, with an aim to raising their own family there.

Conor now walks to and from Haisley Elementary and the neighborhood's local parks and playgrounds, just as his dad did. Corbin attends day care nearby and will start kindergarten this fall at Haisley. Stevens says she really likes the neighborhood, and the location is perfect: "We can go downtown by foot or bike without having to go on the main roads." She adds that the easy highway access and walking distance to Maple Rd. grocery stores and shops are other perks.

Bradley says that there have been transitions in the population over the years. "It was made up of larger families when I was growing up. When Claire and I first moved here, it seemed there were a lot of empty nesters and retirees. Over the last five years, we've been seeing young families with less kids move in."

Conor thinks one of the best things about his neighborhood is the Ann Arbor Skatepark at Veterans Memorial Park. "It's usually pretty crowded," says Bradley, "but I take him every morning at six before I go to work. He's very dedicated."

of King. Other students are bused from Arrowwood Hills Cooperative (350 townhouse units) and the luxurious 520-unit Village Green on Dixboro Rd.

Major condominiums include the 174-unit Earhart Village, the luxury 103-unit Laurel Gardens along Dixboro Rd., and the 360-unit Geddes Lake on Huron Pkwy.—a resident calls Geddes Lake "an island of affordability" in the city's pricey east side.

Clague Middle School and Huron High serve the entire King area.

LAKEWOOD

Nature's sounds still win out over the roar of nearby Jackson Rd. and I-94 in west-side Lakewood. Named for its First Sister and Second Sister Lakes and woods around Dolph Park, this compact neighborhood includes a mix of housing styles.

South of the school, off Liberty, the Burr Oak subdivision dates from the 1980s. The Lakewood area stretches far west into southern Scio Township and northern Lodi Township, where scattered big houses on park-size lawns intermix with the remaining farms, with their rustic barns on stone foundations, split-rail or white picket fences, and occasional horse

Hidden Sights: Rain Gardens

Those of us raised in the suburbs with perfectly manicured lawns may easily misconstrue a rain garden as a patch of unruly weeds and flowers. Rain gardens are popping up all over our community. They're functional, but many people have made them beautiful as well. You can see a map of Washtenaw County's rain gardens—or learn how to make one of your own—at bit.ly/le9dvJv.

Rain gardens direct and absorb fresh water that flows from residential and commercial rooftops and storm drains back into the soil instead of into the streets. They comprise deep-rooted native plants and grasses strategically planned and placed to soak up water and break down contaminants that fresh water picks up along the way, like oil, fertilizers, salt, and pesticides. "Rain gardens are important for our community ecosystem and beyond," says Susan Bryan, Washtenaw County Rain Gardens Coordinator, who is currently offering classes on how to become a Master Rain Gardener.

Not all wildflower gardens are rain gardens. True rain gardens are planted in shallow depressions and filled with native vegetation. The shallowest point includes plants that thrive best in the moistest conditions, while the garden's peripheral higher-elevation plants thrive in conditions with less rainfall. Rain gardens also create a habitat for birds and beneficial insects like honeybees and monarchs, as well as many other pollinator-friendly plants.

"Creating a mindset for sustainability begins in the schools," says Shannan Gibb-Randall, a landscape architect and parent of students at Bach Elementary School. "We designed and built two RGs with school children so they could learn about and interact with more diverse native habitats and increase their understanding of water and the health of the Huron River." Gibb-Randall has also developed and executed a hands-on curriculum for K-5 students to apply what they have learned.

pastures and stables. Toll Brothers brings a new luxury subdivision in 2014, Riding Oaks Estates, off Scio Church Road west of Zeeb.

Expensive newer homes include a cluster on Tessmer off Waters, where houses are separated by fields of wildflowers, in Pheasant Hollow on Scio Church east of Zeeb and across the street on Encore. To the west are the new Riding Oaks Estates, and Sandy Creek, with 3- to-6-acre home sites and equestrian trails.

The established Country French Estates in the Lakewood area's northwest corner have recently been joined by two newer subs in easy walking distance of shopping along Jackson Rd. South along Zeeb the few houses have stately trees and huge yards with swing sets, decks, and patios. East of Zeeb is Arbor Meadows, with stonework facades and landscaped lawns. In Saginaw Hills Estates off Liberty, modern brick and stone homes and decks rise above impressively large landscaped lawns.

Condominiums are concentrated around Liberty near Scio Ridge Rd. On the north side of the road, the 1980s-vintage Liberty Pointe and Liberty Oaks offer 65 detached ranches and 114 townhouses, respectively. Across the street is the 2000s-vintage, 130-unit Summerfield Glen; the 1990s-era Walnut Glen and Walnut View off Scio Ridge Rd. add another 152 condos between them. Affordable housing is provided by the 290-lot Orchard Grove manufactured home community on Wagner.

Lakewood students who live north of Liberty go on to Forsythe and Skyline High; those who live south go to Slauson and Pioneer.

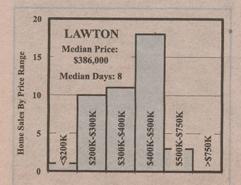

LAWTON

Street after street of handsome colonials, well-manicured lawns, and cul-de-sacs, with sports-playing kids make the area around Lawton Elementary feel more like suburb than city. The Lawton area includes established neighborhoods inside the free-way ring, new ones to the southwest in Pittsfield Township, and a section of rural Lodi Township to the west. All students go to Slauson Middle School and Pioneer High.

Around the school itself, south of Scio Church, there are a variety of split-levels and colonials. Farther south, the simple 2-story homes on Northbrook date from the 1980s.

Across I-94 in Pittsfield Township, the 1990s-era Arbor Creek and Boulder Ridge subdivisions hug the west side of the freeway, tucked behind the Oak Valley Centre. Arbor Creek provides large, 2-story cul-de-sac homes with tidy lawns. The Colonial-style Boulder Ridge has a play park, and the 2 subdivisions share a common area with a walking path. Under construction (2015) are the 192-unit Centerra Pointe townhouse apartments, tightly clustered on 18 acres along Oak Valley, across from Boulder Ridge and Arbor Creek. The 217-unit Meadowbrook Village apartments off Ann Arbor–Saline Rd. date from the late 1980s.

South of Waters is the Hawthorne Ridge subdivision, whose 2-story homes boast big garages and vaulted brick entranceways. Beyond the Lake Forest Golf

My Neighborhood: Lawton

Visitors to Anne and Paul Ristich's home in the Lawton neighborhood can always count on a warm—and boisterous—welcome. Dogs Zeke and Little Lady, as well as Summer the cat, often join the family—which includes ten-year-old twins Katie and Monica—in the front entryway when guests arrive. And because Anne teaches violin lessons at their home, they get plenty of visitors. "It's an open-door house full of music and life and activity," says Paul. Anne adds, however, that "everyone knows when the studio door closes it's time to get to work."

It's the family's second home in the Lawton neighborhood; they bought their first as newlyweds fifteen years ago. "My plan was to go into Ann Arbor and leave," says Anne, laughing. A Connecticut native, she came to U-M for her graduate degree in music. She met Paul when she worked as a hostess and he worked as a waiter at the former Sweet Lorraine's. They married three years later.

A few years after their twins arrived, they agreed they needed more space. They considered moving to the northeast side so Paul, who's a high school English teacher in South Lyon, would have a shorter commute. But Lawton already had the two things that topped their wish list: sidewalks and a short walk to school for their kids. And then a Cape Cod with a huge yard and a front room for Anne's studio opened up in the Lansdowne subdivision.

The Ristiches cherish their spot, and it seems many of their visitors do too. Parents of Anne's students sometimes sit on the front porch, with views of Paul's hydrangeas and cherry and mulberry trees, and read during violin lessons. Others bring their dogs along and walk through the neighborhood with its 1960s-era colonials and split-levels, and three parks.

Katie and Monica say they simply ring a doorbell to use a neighbor's swimming pool or backyard trampoline. The girls also hang out and play soccer and basketball on the Lawton Elementary school grounds, where Paul has coached the Lawton Leopards soccer team since his daughters were kindergartners. Pioneer Woods is a favorite spot a short hike away where Monica says, "I like to climb the trees and catch minnows." And on U-M football Saturdays, Anne says the family "likes to watch Ann Arbor go by." But music remains a centerpiece in their lives.

"Music as part of education is so valued here," says Anne, who performs with several regional symphony orchestras. Monica takes violin lessons from her mom and Katie takes piano in the neighborhood. In Ann Arbor, Anne says, "parents want kids to be well-rounded and are very appreciative" of music instruction.

For Katie and Monica there's a bonus to having their mom teach from home: Many of Anne's students "become like older brothers and sisters" to the girls, she says. There is great sadness when her students move away to college, but Anne says "they all keep in touch," and often return to visit.

Club lie small brick ranches, 2-story houses, and open fields; homes are set far back down long driveways.

Farther west, Lodi Township still has active farms, including a few horse farms. Along Wagner are older country homes with vegetable gardens and big yards with lots of trees, and sometimes a tractor or dilapidated barn.

Students are bused to Lawton from the Pinelake Village Cooperative, a 1960s-vintage federal project on S. Maple with 129 townhouses.

LOGAN

Tree-lined Traver Blvd., on the city's northeast side, is home to Logan Elementary, with condos and apartments across from the school and quiet streets of well-kept colonials leading to the aptly named Placid Way Park behind the school.

This is the largest elementary school area in the district, stretching out from the city into portions of Ann Arbor, Northfield, Salem, and Superior townships.

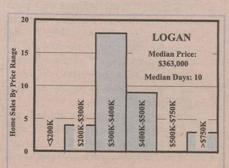

The area is ethnically diverse, with one of the highest concentrations of Asian Americans in the city. Many people have settled on this side of town for its convenient access to metropolitan Detroit.

Some of the last subdivisions built in the city are located off Dhu Varren, including the 1990s-vintage Foxfire and Dhu Varren Park. As the City Guide went to press, the city was reviewing proposals to fill the last undeveloped portion of the former Nixon farm with more than 500 apartments and townhouses. The Plymouth Road Mall and Traver Village offer grocry stores, and restaurants. Logan school itself is surrounded by modest single-family homes and the 210-unit Traver Ridge apartment complex.

The Logan area stretches north of US-23 and M-14. Beyond the reach of public sewer and water, homes here are on large lots of 2 acres or more. The area on and around Warren Rd. offers modest homes with lots of acreage on dirt roads. In the Pine Brook Estates subdivision off Gleaner Hall, north of Pontiac, homes cluster on 1-acre lots around a 22-acre common area that includes several ponds. The 100-home

Tanglewood community, south of M-14 and east of Dixboro, features multistory contemporary homes on large lots.

Logan serves some students from the Arrowwood Hills Cooperative, as well as families in the 475-unit Willowtree complex across from North Campus. Off Huron Pkwy. are the 100-unit Ironwood Place apartments and Parkway Meadows, whose 212 units are targeted at low-income residents and seniors. Nearby are the 88 Traver Lakes condos.

From Logan, students go on to Clague Middle School. Those living east of Nixon go to Huron High; the rest attend Skyline.

The paired Mitchell Elementary and Scarlett Middle schools adjoin the 427 affordable townhouses of the Colonial Square Cooperative and nearby modestly priced ranches and colonials on Platt. The schools' extensive playfields and the neighboring Scarlett-Mitchell Nature Area, with its branching trails and pond, are a magnet for residents of the southeast side neighborhood.

This area includes the neighborhoods straddling Platt Rd. south of Packard and winds its way as far southeast as the intersection of Carpenter and Merritt.

Young families find the neighborhood near the school appealing: the prices are modest for Ann Arbor, and shopping and schools are nearby. Homes include Colonial Square townhouses, 3-bedroom ranches, and a few 2-story colonials on modest lots on both sides of Platt. The 210-home Turnberry subdivision on Packard just west of US-23 is slightly more expensive and caters to an older crowd. Farther south in Pittsfield Township are the Oakengates and Willow Pond subdivisions, set amid older individual homes on large lots, and Arbor Meadows, a 408-lot manufactured-housing community.

All Mitchell children go on to Scarlett Middle School and Huron High.

NORTHSIDE

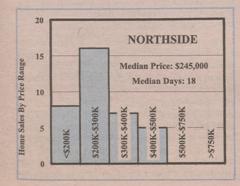

An eclectic mix of homes—including some of the city's oldest—fills the Northside Elementary area northeast of downtown, where a community center draws neighbors to its steps and baseball players to Northside Park's fields behind the school.

Long known as Lower Town, this portal to the northeast side has some of the city's oldest surviving houses such as the Beckley House, built in New England Georgian style, at the corner of Pontiae and Argo. It was once a stop on the Underground Railroad, and schoolchildren used to take field trips there to imagine where the slaves hid.

Rising northward from the river, the Broadway neighborhood combines rental housing with older single-family houses on large, well-kept lots on and near Cedar Bend, a street that offers spectacular views of the Huron River valley and leads down a rutted path to Cedar Bend Nature Area. Many older homes have been rehabilitated, and the area has become more popular with families who have young children.

In the established, low-key, well-integrated neighbor-hood off Pontiac Tr., neighbors fix their cars, children play tag in the streets, and retirees sit in rockers on the porch. Longshore is a quiet dirt road tracing the top of the bluff above the river. A popular boardwalk along Barton provides pedestrian access to Bandemer Park and combines with a bicycle path to complete a walking and biking loop around Argo Pond.

Farther up Pontiac Tr., the brick Cape Cods off Brookside and Skydale in the Huron Highlands area are home to families, retirees, and singles. Off Dhu Varren, Leslie Park Circle's newer midsize homes offer easy access to its namesake park, with its golf course and nature area. With Leslie and Olson Park. at Dhu Varren and Pontiac, Northside offers some of the largest recreation spaces in the city.

The area south of Plymouth and west of Huron Pkwy. is dominated by the U-M's North Campus, a mixture of classroom and research buildings, residence halls, and rental apartments and townhouses for students and staff. Students also are abundant in the 160-unit Parc Pointe, the 84-unit Broadview, and the 130-unit Highlands apartments, on either side of Plymouth at the top of the Broadway hill. East of Broadway, the new Courtyards targets its 1- to 4-bedroom units exclusively at students, with individual leases and amenities like free wireless and outdoor party spaces. Farther from campus, Traver Knoll's 216 units draw a more diverse population.

More apartments cluster along the Huron River including Island Dr., with 348 units, and Medical Center Court, with 201. The 128 Shoreview townhouses off Pontiac Tr. include both owner-occupied and rental units. Other condos include the 1960s-vintage Riverhouse, with 128 apartments off Island Dr., the 62-unit Nielsen Square on Maiden Lane, and the 112unit Northside Glen, at Pontiac and Dhu Varren, both built around the turn of the century.

Northside is in the Clague Middle School (the new Ann Arbor STEAM program has its own 7th grade starting this year) and Skyline High areas, except for North Campus, where children are bused to Tappan and then go to Huron High.

PITTSFIELD

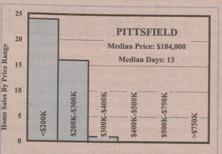

Pittsfield is unique among Ann Arbor neighborhoods in being anchored by a condo complex. Laid out in 1943, the 422-unit Pittsfield Village Condominiums feature winding streets and sweeping parklike common yards on a total of 64 acres, housing a mix of seniors and families. The many children in the adjoining Forestbrooke area enjoy a neighborhood pool and swim club. Forestbrooke and the nearby Darlington subdivision, which have ample yards, contain Sheffler Park and the Rosebud Nature Area.

The established, affordable neighborhoods that make up the Pittsfield school area are surrounded by com-mercial strips lined with big box stores, fast-food chains, and a variety of international shops that serve a diverse population.

Block after block of small starter homes surround the school. Kids also are bused from the shady streets of the 1960s-era neighborhood off Golfside between Woodside and Ellsworth. The Silverleaf subdivision near Golfside and Ellsworth is composed mostly of 2-story homes. The University Palisades subdivision off Ellsworth closer to Carpenter offers ranches, colonials, and split-colonials.

Pittsfield also draws students from the 336-unit Ridgewood Apartments on Carpenter and the adjacent 121-unit Coachville mobile home community; the boyhood home of Iggy Pop, it now has a signifi-

Pittsfield students attend Scarlett Middle School and Huron High.

THURSTON

Northeast-side Thurston Elementary is surrounded by a pond, a prairie, and a nature area, and its 1960s-era ranches and colonials are filled with families who walk to school and the neighborhood pool and parks via nature trails and sidewalks.

The area north of Plymouth and east of Nixon is a well-manicured mixture of subdivisions, condominiums, townhouses, and apartment complexes. Business professionals, U-M faculty and staff, children, and retirees all mix in this diverse area. The single-family subdivisions west of Green were first known as Ford Motor Company neighborhoods, for

My Neighborhood: Wines

Tucked away off Dhu Varren, between M-14 and Whitmore Lake Rd., there's a quiet community of custom-built homes on Sunrise Ridge Ct. The little street is just a bit more than two miles from downtown Ann Arbor, but nature in abundance is within an easy walk. That's why Leah and Erik Stringwell chose this laid-back neighborhood as home.

The Stringwells fell in love with this spot on the outskirts of town, so close to the chain of multi-use riverine parks along the Huron: Bandemer Park, Bird Hills Nature Area, and Barton Hills Nature Area.

I push our daughter, Nora, in the stroller in Barton Hills. We also bike there. Erik takes advantage of the parks to go running and hiking. The area offers beautiful scenery, and we love being close to so many different parks," Leah says.

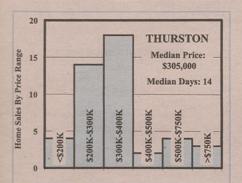

You might miss this little neighborhood as you cruise by the intersection of Dhu Varren and Whitmore Lake Rd. But it's conveniently located near the M-14 entrance for commuters like Erik, and is just minutes away from shopping, including Kerrytown, Main St., and the diverse collection of stores and restaurants in the Plymouth Rd. area.

The twenty or so houses on Sunrise Ridge are on lots of at least one acre, providing an abundance of green space for gardening and landscaping. Sharp architecture is another draw. The houses have a mixture of stone and wood siding. The stone in many of the houses is similar to traditional brick architecture in its horizontal layout, yet the walls are composed of rectangular stones of different sizes, adding an abstract, modern edge. The houses are essentially ranches, but they have different shapes and layouts, and there's something individual about each one.

There aren't many places where you can live serenely, almost out in the country, but be within a skip and a jump of major cultural amenities-and have a great system of riverine trails a few hundred yards away to boot. The neighborhoods in the Wines school district north of the Huron offer that rare combination, and Leah and Erik Stringwell are happy to have found a place in one of them.

-Lindsay White

their high commuter population. Young families are very much in evidence. The neighborhoods are fairly stable, with an extremely high rate of home owner-ship. Many children live within walking distance of school, and shopping at Traver Village and Plymouth Road Mall is just a stone's throw away.

The hamlet of Dixboro, along Plymouth Rd. at the western edge of Superior Township, has a small core of historic homes. The Thurston area continues deep into Superior Township, where exclusive subdivisions are mixed in with old and new country homes on huge lots with views of the remaining farms. Some homes in the Glennborough sub off Gale have sold for more than $1.5 million.

The 480-unit Windmere Park apartments are near the school; some students also are bused from the 350unit Arrowwood Hills Co-op.

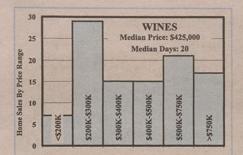

The Chapel Hill condos, east of Green, have a fairly high turnover, as U-M graduate students, staff, and foreign visitors come and go from 425 townhouses. The newer, 291-unit Barclay Park complex is nearby. Thurston students attend Clague Middle School and Huron High.

WINES

As Newport Rd. climbs north to the Wines Elementary area, just south of M-14 on the city's northwest side, broad and rambling roads offer some of the best views in the city and a wide range of housing styles, encompassing everything from modest subdivisions in Ann Arbor to secluded luxury homes in Barton Hills and rural residential hideaways in the townships of Ann Arbor, Scio, and Webster. A mix of retired and young families live among lofty hills in houses ranging from Cape Cods and colonials near Hunt Park to dramatic contemporaries on Orkney; all have easy access to both Bird Hills Nature Area and Bluffs Park. The city calls this the Sunset neighborhood, but a spectacularly successful neighborhood music festival has popularized a new name: Water Hill.

West of Newport, young parents mix with grand-parents on quiet streets of single-family ranches and Cape Cods tucked behind the sports fields of Forsythe Middle School, which shares a large, open campus

M-14 divides the middle-class city neighborhoods to its south from some of the most exclusive terrain in the Ann Arbor area. As Newport moves north from the freeway, it passes through late 20th-century subdivisions filled with family-minded professionals and business executives—Walnut Ridge, Newport Hills, and Newport Creek. Farther north, modern dream houses perch on the wooded slopes and stare out across the Huron River at the mansions of Barton Hills in a duel of extravagance. Barton Hills, one of Michigan's wealthiest communities, is legally a village, but its streets and shared facilities are owned by the home owners' private association, which limits access to residents and their guests. Most of the village's first homes, often of English Tudor or cottage style, were constructed during the 1930s. Architect-designed trophy houses followed in the 1950s and 1960s. Recently, many homes have been extensively renovated-or torn down and replaced with larger and showier structures.

The Wines district continues west along Miller almost to Zeeb and far north into Webster Township, where country homes sit on large lots. Multiplefamily housing is represented by Newport West Con-dominiums, whose 103 units are carefully designed to maximize privacy and views of neighboring Bird Hills Nature Area.

Wines grads go on to Forsythe Middle School and Skyline High.

Hidden Sights: First Sister Lake

"When I was a student at the University of Michigan, I made it a habit of visiting almost every park of any size in the City of Ann Arbor," writes Monroe blogger The Erie Hiker. "The amazing thing is that even after four years of exploration, I was still finding new trails, routes and cool parks. The city parks are just that good."

Ann Arbor has an abundance of natural areas, but it takes that kind of systematic effort to know them all well—many are hidden away in the middle of neighborhoods, known to locals but mostly ignored by those who zip by on arterial roads. One of these is First Sister Lake off Jackson, part of Dolph Park in the Lakewood school district.

The little lake seems miles away from the freeway and the busy road it abuts. Formed along with its two sisters by, as Robert Frost put it, "the chisel work of an enormous glacier that braced his feet against the Arctic pole," First Sister Lake is an oasis of nature amid the car culture. Houses along Parklake overlook it, and the whole neigborhood is just a few minutes' walk away. There's a little dock among the reeds from which you might observe a good deal of avian life. And you can even launch a small boat and fish-something not possible at many places in Ann Arbor. Says hookandbullet.com: "Fishermen will find a variety of fish including pumpkinseed sunfish, bream, bluegill, largemouth bass and bullhead here." (For licenses, see Individual Sports / Fishing).

The joy of discovery meets children every day.

At Christian Montessori School of Ann Arbor we believe that education should prepare children for life, not just the next test. In our fast changing world, students need the tools to meaningfully engage and connect. We want students to develop the skills necessary to construct the world of tomorrow and to thrive in it. To do that, we prepare an enlivening environment where children develop critical thinking and problem solving skills; where they work independently as well as collaboratively; where characteristics like curiosity, compassion, and leadership are nurtured and celebrated.

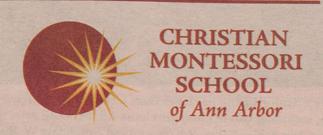

In our multi-age classrooms we personalize education by giving one-on-one lessons to students, encouraging them to pursue their own interests and take ownership of their education, and by pacing the curriculum for the individual, not the classroom. There are limitless opportunities for active, hands-on education. As children engage with the real world they see what works, what doesn't and why. The result – a lifelong love of learning.

A Christian Montessori education is truly preparation for life.

Creating an Experience

Working the Big House on football Saturday.

ow important is it for you to watch the game?" Raul Perdomo, supervisor of guest services for U-M athletics events, poses this question at interviews, and it's surprising. How could someone not watch the game while working the Big House? Seems pretty easy.

Perdomo asks because would-be em-

Perdomo asks because would-be employees need to know that a job at the stadium isn't just a free pass through the gates. On those fall Saturdays—and at every other U-M athletic event—he and his colleagues are focused on the fans, not the game.

"It's about engaging them in the Michigan experience," says Sarah Hoffman-Rowe, team leader of the East Tower. Among other things, her staff there operate elevators to assist guests with mobility issues, and maintain security of the stadium's elite club and suite seating—all sans view of the game.

It takes a dedicated staff of close to a thousand employees to prepare the stadium for football Saturday in Ann Arbor. "It's a city within a city," says Hoffman-Rowe, and the event staff works enthusiastically to give that city a good first impression. Key team leaders arrive up to six hours before kick-off for briefings, with the last employees arriving two hours before the game.

Once the gates open, everyone is in position. They scan tickets, usher people to their seats, and deal with other issues. Though alcohol is banned, fans who drink beforehand can get rowdy; if they do, Roger Engholm's response team is called to ensure things remain under control.

One unfortunate incident created an unforgettable opportunity for engagement. A drunken fan vomited on a neighboring couple—and when they came back from cleaning off, their seats were still messy. They really wanted to be moved, but no seats were free. The husband jokingly said he didn't care if they had to stand on the field, they just wanted to see the game. Perdomo ran with it, and got permission to seat them on the field itself.

Picking up the seat-rearranging theme, Hoffman-Rowe recalls the time a boy in the East Tower experienced a peanut allergy incident. Staff moved him and his mother to the press box to stop his reaction. And the East Tower no longer carries peanuts or any other peanut products.

Workers may not be able to see the game, but they do feel it along with the fans. Roger recalls fans' reactions to the 2013 Notre Dame game. "You could almost feel the swings in emotion," he says. Working portal thirteen that night, he remembers the back and forth action of the scoreboard, possessions between the Wolverines and the Irish, and fans who'd left running back to their seats once cheers were heard.

It's the big plays people remember, but stadium event staffers are the people fans interact with the most. From having your ticket scanned by a ticket-taker you might remember from game to game, or cheering along with an usher, these three employees, and hundreds of others, are all about creating an experience. As Engholm puts it, "it's easy to be nice."

ELECTIONS

Ann Arbor city elections are held annually on the day after the first Mon. in Nov. Federal, state, county, and school board elections are on that same Tues. in even-numbered years. Township and village elections are every 4 years to coincide with national presidential elections. For all elections, polls are open 7 a.m.—8 p.m. You can register to vote at your city or township clerk's office or at a Secretary of State branch office, (for locations, see the Secretary of State listing in this guide). To be eligible to vote, you must be a U.S. citizen and at least 18 on Election Day and must register your local address at least 30 days before the election. Those interested in working as an election inspector at a city polling place should email the election recruiter at recruiters@a2gov.org approximately 60 days before a city election. Applications are available at a2gov.org/elections. Inspectors are paid $9/hour

To help select candidates, each major party has a primary on the day after the first Mon. in Aug. (In many places, including Ann Arbor, one party currently holds most or all offices, so the primary is the election that really matters). For more information, contact the county headquarters of the Democratic Party (734–330–5225, info@washtenawdems.org) or the Republican Party (734–996–9467, wash-gop.com).

City Council & Mayor

For information about the Ann Arbor City Council and issues currently before it, see a2gov.org/agenda, or call the Ann Arbor city clerk at (734) 794–6140. If you want to see changes made in any city law, rule, or procedure, call your council representatives. To learn who they are, see a2gov.org/departments/city-council/Pages/Home.aspx

City council adopts the city's annual budget and determines city laws and policies. It has 11 members: 2 from each of the city's 5 wards, plus the mayor. Ward representatives are paid $15,913.50/year. They serve staggered 2-year terms: 1 seat in each ward is filled in a partisan election each Nov. (see Elections). Ann Arbor has not elected a Republican officeholder since 2003, and the August Democratic primary (see Elections) usually decides the council's membership. Currently, the council is made up of 10 Democrats and 1 independent.

Regular city council meetings are held the 1st & 3rd Mon. at 7 p.m. in the council chambers, 2nd floor of City Hall. Agendas for council meetings and notices of public hearings are posted at a2gov.org/agenda the previous Thursday. Special and working sessions, open to the public, are conducted as needed, notice is posted in City Hall and at a2gov.legistar.com/calendar. Public comment time is available at all meetings, and all meetings are broadcast live on the city's Community Television Network and repeated twice each week; see a2gov.org/ctn for replay times or to view meetings live online or via video on demand.

Council holds a joint caucus the Sun. before scheduled council meetings at 7 p.m. in the council chambers. Open to the public, caucuses provide a better forum than council meetings for citizens who want to talk directly with council members, but not all members attend

Ten three-minute slots are available for public comment at the beginning of each regular council meeting. Sign-up for speaking slots begins at 8 a.m. the day of the meeting, with priority given to those persons wishing to speak on agenda items (734–794–6140). After 1 p.m., slots are filled first-come, first-served. Speakers must identify their topic when they sign up, and are not permitted to sign up for others or grant time to another speaker. At the end of each meeting, members of the public may address council without signing up in advance. Public comment general time is available at the end of each working session. Public hearings are conducted on many proposed council actions. Anyone can speak without advance notice for up to 3 minutes.

Persons with disabilities can participate in public meetings. Accommodations, including sign-language interpreters, may be arranged by contacting the city clerk's office, 301 E. Huron, 2nd floor (734-794-6140, a2gov.org/departments/city-clerk/Pages/default.aspx). Requests must be made at least two business days before meeting times.

Mayor, City Hall, 3rd floor. (734) 794–6161. The mayor, elected in a partisan election every 2 years, presides over city council and is a voting member. The board may also grant a poverty exemption, which must be renewed annually, to homeowners who meet specific income levels and other requirements. Anyone who purchases a home must fill out a property transfer affidavit (available at the assessor's office) within 45 days. Homeowners who both own and occupy their property may fill out a principal residence affidavit to obtain a lower tax rate. Businesses that are opening or closing should contact the assessor's office about personal property taxes. assessor@a2gov.org

THE ANN ARBOR CITY CODE

A quick look at some of the more unusual city ordinances. To read the complete city code, visit the city clerk's office, or look online at municode.com (click on "municode library" then choose Michigan, then Ann Arbor).

Chickens. Residents of the City of Ann Arbor may apply for a permit to keep up to 6 chickens (but no roosters), based on a number of conditions and restrictions. Permits are $20, are good for 5 years, and are issued only if the applicant's adjacent residential neighbors provide written consent. Chickens must be kept in a backyard, within a fenced enclosure at all times, and must be provided with a covered enclosure. Enclosures and feed must be maintained so as not to attract or harbor rats, mice, or other rodents. Permit forms are available online at a2gov.org, or at the City Clerk's office.

Crosswalks. At crosswalks without traffic lights, drivers must stop for pedestrians stopped at the curb, at the curb ramp, or within a crosswalk. It is illegal to pass another vehicle stopped at a crosswalk, or to drive "in such manner as to splash snow, rain, water, mud, dirt, or debris" onto pedestrians on sidewalks or crosswalks.

Domestic Violence. Ann Arbor's domestic violence law requires police to arrest a person "when the officer has reasonable cause to believe that person has, within the previous 24 hours, assaulted a spouse, former spouse, or other person residing or having resided in the same household, if the victim has visible signs of injury from the assault or if the assailant used or threatened to use a dangerous weapon." An arrest can be made even without the victim wanting to prosecute.

Landlords and Tenants. By law, landlords must give their tenants the city-produced booklet Rights and Duties of Tenants or face fines of up to $500. The booklet is available at the city clerk's office. One booklet per rental unit is available free of charge to landlords and tenants.

Landscaping. The owner of every parcel of land is responsible for "grading, planting, mowing, and raking the extension or city street right-of-way so that it is covered with turf grass with an average height not in excess of 12 inches or other ground cover vegetation with an average height not more than 36 inches above the adjacent road surface" unless the vegetation presents a view hazard based on the criteria of AAS-HTO (the American Association of State Highway Transportation Officials). On private property no turf grass taller than 12 inches is permitted.

Liquor. No one "shall consume liquor on the public streets, in a public parking lot" or in any business not licensed for on-premise liquor consumption. Approved events with outdoor liquor sales are exempt.

Marijuana. Under the City Charter, possession of small amounts of marijuana is a civil infraction carrying a penalty of $25 for the first offense, $50 for second offense, and $100 for third offense. Additional court costs and fees may be added. The City recognizes the use of small amounts of marijuana for medical purposes as a reasonable defense, which may result in penalties being dropped. In practice, the city court usually chooses between enforcing its own law or the state law on the basis of the amount of marijuana found. State law makes possession of the drug (except for medical purposes) a criminal offense, possibly punishable by jail time of up to one year and a fine of up to $1,000. The Michigan Medical Marijuana law, passed in November 2008, protects medical marijuana patients from prosecution under state law. but federal law still classifies marijuana as a narcotic. and federal agents continue to arrest and prosecute those who cultivate or sell it. The U-M police force and county sheriff's deputies follow the state law.

Nonmotorized transportation. No roller skates, sleds, coasting wagons, toy vehicles, or similar devices are allowed on streets, except to cross them on a crosswalk. Bikes on the roads between a half-hour after sunset and an hour before sunrise must use headlights and have rear reflectors, and "every bicycle shall be equipped with at least one effective brake."

Pets. Dog owners must have their pets under "reasonable control"—that is, leashed or confined—at all times; they also are required to clean up after their dogs on both public and private property. Dog licenses are mandatory, and are valid through the expiration of the animal's rabies vaccination. Licenses for dogs that are spayed or neutered are $6 for up to 1 year, $11 for up to 2 years, and $15 for up to 3 years; unaltered animals are $12, $22, and $30. Service dogs are licensed for free.

Owners of all pets must provide proper food, drink, and shelter from the weather for their animals, as well as the medical attention necessary to prevent the animals from suffering. Animals may not be left confined without adequate ventilation.

All three district courts handle criminal and traffic misdemeanors, traffic civil infractions, and felony preliminary exams. Additionally, all three courts hear civil cases involving less than $25,000, including most landlord-tenant disputes. There is a $1,000 maximum award for accident-caused damage to motor vehicles. The filing fee is $25, (more for claims over $600). The court charges a small additional amount to serve papers.

Your Sidewalk Millage at Work 2012-2016

a2gov.org/sidewalk

Beginning in 2012, the city assumed responsibility for needed repairs of the sidewalk system, as voted on by Ann Arbor residents through 2016.

To accomplish this task, the city has been divided into several areas, with work scheduled in specific areas each year. The map shows the areas scheduled to be inspected annually and repairs made where deficiencies are found.

WHAT REPAIRS WILL BE MADE?

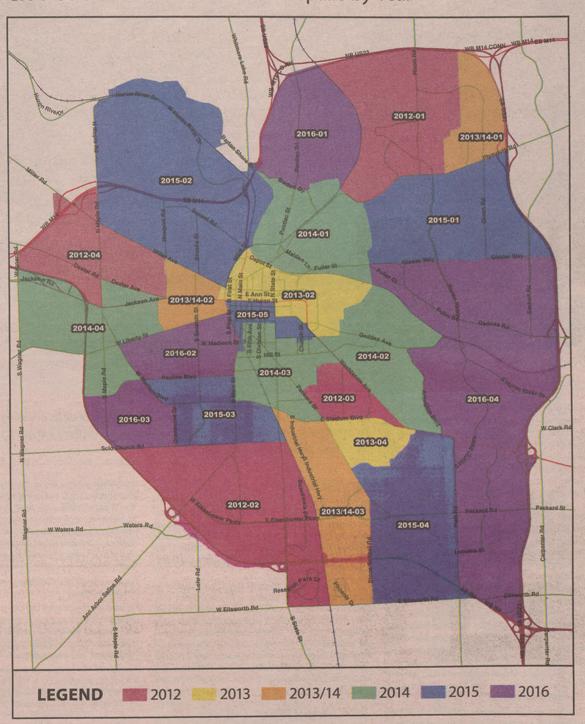

- Vertical deflections of more than ½ inch.
- Areas of severe water ponding and icing.
- Slabs that have settled or been lifted out of place enough to cause a serious hindrance to mobility.

The city's contractor will replace slabs, horizontally cut the sidewalk, or lift (mud-jack) slabs depending on the type of defect to be corrected.

WHAT SIDEWALKS QUALIFY FOR THE PROGRAM?

The Sidewalk Millage is intended for the repair and maintenance of existing sidewalks, and not for the construction of new sidewalks. If a new sidewalk is desired in an area, a petition must be submitted to the city's public services administrator, who will determine if the city can support and build the proposed sidewalk. If so, the administrator will ask for City Council's approval for the project and establish a special assessment district, whereby the adjacent property owners would be assessed for the cost of the new sidewalk. Please submit petitions for new sidewalks via the city contact information below.

The Performance Network

"A Space of Possibility"

The Performance Network Theatre is a hub of artistic activity. A full season of professional productions is supplemented by children's theater, classes in theater arts for adults and kids, and free play readings. The Network develops playwrights, too, through the Northern Writers Project, an intensive week of workshops culminating in public readings. The theater was flooded with over 300 submissions this year, with scripts coming from Michigan and beyond.

"We're looking at things that move us, plays that are smart, and funny, and have a big heart," says artistic director Suzi Regan of plays they select both for the project and production. "Everyone here is politically minded, but we're not using this as a podium to preach what we think." The works are sometimes edgy and adventurous-next season, for instance, includes Edward Albee's dark comedy, Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?, a reimagining of Othello, a quirky comedy by Annie Martin, and a comic mystery by Joseph Zettelmaier.

On evenings when there are no play performances, this thriving network offers a host of other events-musical acts, comedy, film, and poetry. These are free, luring potential audiences to the theater. They often occur in the revitalized lobby, which doubles as an art gallery. "It's like a great restaurant," says executive director John Manfredi. "You'll find something on the menu that you like, and no matter what you order, it will be good stuff." From August 14, 2014, when Regan, Man-fredi, and company manager Sara Dean arrived on the scene, through August 2015, the Network hosted or produced more than 225 performances of plays.

The Network wasn't always a destination for top-notch entertainment. In 1981, it opened in a makeshift space on W. Washington. A structural pole interfered with sightlines; the productions were decidedly amateurish, with a strong political focus. Eventually, the Network achieved professional status and moved to a fully functioning theater on the corner of Huron and Fourth Ave.

Billed as a "space of possibility," today's Network is open to new people and new ideas. The directors often wear jeans when greeting spectators, and they're sometimes accompanied by Manfredi's dog, recalling the laid back feel of the Network in the 1980s. But don't be fooled: this Network is driven by an authentic artistic vision and an absolutely professional approach to productions of plays worth seeing.

Vegetarian-Friendly Ann Arbor

My husband and I got awfully sick of grilled cheese sandwiches a couple summers ago while vacationing for six days in the Upper Peninsula. Breakfast wasn't usually a problem, but finding vegetarian options on lunch and dinner menus was rare.

So we were relieved to get back home. Ann Arbor has several restaurants with 100 percent vegetarian menus and many others featuring a dozen or more vegetarian options. You'd expect vegan options in very large metropolises on the east and west coast, but Ann Arbor has an extraordinarily good food scene for vegetarians, especially for its size.

Founded in 1973 and recently relocated to the Westgate shopping center, Seva is the oldest vegetarian restaurant in the area and one that many diners think of first. Because the menu's focus is on vegetarian comfort food, even confirmed meat-eaters don't mind visiting with their vegetarian friends. The Pasta alla Bosca—penne pasta tossed with chargrilled portabella mushrooms, soy sausage, spinach, olive oil, garlic, hot pepper flakes, and parmesan—and the Enchiladas Calabaza, filled with butternut squash and cream cheese, are two of my favorites.

The Earthen Jar, an all-vegetarian Indian cuisine buffet where customers pay by the pound, is another well-known venue for those who avoid animal-based foods. In recent years, Hut-K Chaats, serving nutritious and delicious vegetarian and vegan Indian street food, and the Lunch Room, serving all-vegan sandwiches, soups and comfort food, have joined the list of vegetarian and vegan local restaurants.

Amy Wright-Olsen, a vegan who lives in Ypsilanti and works in Ann Arbor, likes the Kerrytown Lunch Room but has recently fallen in love with their second location, the Lunch Room Bakery and Café in Huron Towers. "My current favorite is the Beet Bot Boop Bagel, with cashew cheese, marinated beets, and greens on a house made everything bagel," Wright-Olsen says.

In addition to the all-vegetarian restaurants in the area, many of the ethnic restaurants have a menu page or more dedicated to vegetarian entrees. And even bars and grills in Ann Arbor often have a number of selections for vegetarians and vegans.

"Thai, Indian, and Middle Eastern are reliably good for vegan options," says Wright-Olsen. "But Arbor Brewing Company is definitely the most vegan-friendly local restaurant that's not specifically vegetarian. There is a vegan section of the standard menu with an excellent selection of vegan or veganized options."

And the city is gearing up for one more addition to its list of veg-friendly restaurants. As the City Guide was going to press, the owner of Hut-K Chaats was remodeling the former Jazzy Veggie on S. Main St., turning it into a 100 percent vegan restaurant featuring healthy, whole-grain versions of Indian street food.

CITY PARKS & NATURE AREAS

As of February 2015, smoking is prohibited in about half of the City of Ann Arbor's 158 parks. The ban includes all parks with playgrounds, and four downtown parks. If in doubt, look for signs. For an indexed Google map of all Ann Arbor parks, see tinyurl. com/2774x8a

Riverfront Parks

Ann Arbor boasts several miles of diverse parks along the Huron River. Connected by trails, they provide the perfect setting for a long scenic walk or bike ride, as well as the chance to stop and enjoy activities ranging from bird watching and fishing to disc golf and swimming. Here's an overview, downstream from northwest to southeast.

Located on the northwest side of town, the Bird Hills Nature Area is the city's largest park, a favorite of hikers for its unpaved wooded trails through steep hills and ravines. To the east, across the river and Huron River Dr., the low-lying Barton Nature Area contains several different ecosystems, including prairie, emergent marshland, wet meadows, and former farmlands, and is home to the century Barton Dam. To the east stretches Bandemer Park, frequented by many for its 9-hole disc golf course, dirt bike jump course, and views of Argo Pond. The pond is circled by a trail connecting Bandemer Park with Argo Park to the east. A pedestrian boardwalk and then a dirt trail follow the eastern shoreline south through dense willows and oaks to the Argo watersports livery off Longshore Dr. On the west side of the pond, the paved Border-to-Border Trail (B2B) runs from Bandemer to Argo Dam and follows the Huron River all the way to Ypsilanti. A new addition to Argo Park, the wildly popular Argo Cascades is a bypass channel featuring a series of nine narrow drops and pools that carry paddlers and inner-tubers from Argo Pond down to the main river just upstream of the Broadway Bridges.

The B2B Trail goes under the bridges and passes through picturesque Riverside Park, located on a relatively shallow portion of river suitable for fly-fishing. Downstream, off Maiden Ln., there are many inviting outdoor tables, grills, and a stunning Greek Revival picnic shelter at Island Park. In the woods at the back of the park, an old dirt road, now a walking path, ascends to the Cedar Bend Nature Area, a high, forested slope (also accessible from Broadway via Cedar Bend Dr.) whose view of the city's skyline is partially obscured by oaks and hickories

Across the river from Island Park, Fuller Park bustles with people playing on its soccer fields, large playground, and in its outdoor pool and water slide. From here, the B2B Trail runs east along Fuller Rd. and around the U-M's Mitchell Field and softball diamonds, leading to Gallup Park. The city's most popular park, it has two playgrounds, a canoe and paddleboat livery, and over 3 miles of bucolic trails and arched footbridges joining a series of small islands. A pedestrian walkway connects Gallup with its quiet neighbor to the west, the Furstenberg Nature Area. The most ecologically diverse park in Ann Arbor, it contains several rare species of flora native to wetlands, woodlands, prairie, and oak savanna.

Teeming with roller bladers, joggers, and cyclists, the B2B Trail continues from Gallup Park east to Parker

Mill County Park, where there is a historic grist and cider mill, and then Forest Nature Area, a wet forest of black maples, hackberries, and rock elms traversed by a boardwalk trail with interpretative signs.

Other Local Parks of Note

On the west side, Hunt Park sits atop a glacial hill and offers a panorama of downtown as well as basket-ball and tennis courts, softball diamonds, and a play area. In the winter it's popular among young sledders, as is Wurster Park on the Old West Side. In between Miller and Huron streets, the large and vibrant West Park has a baseball field, community garden, playground, and a recently renovated band shell that hosts the Ann Arbor Civic Band's summer concert series and Blackbird Theatre's Shakespeare West.

The city park system abounds in wild pockets. These range in size from the Hannah Nature Area, a quaint 1-acre wooded site at the end of Bath St. just west of Seventh St., to the sprawling Marshall Nature Area, 79 acres of ridges, hollows, and low-lying meadows east of Domino's Farms. Located between the Leslie Park Golf Course and Upland Dr., the Leslie Woods Nature Area is a mature woodland that contains some of the largest oaks and hickories within the park system. Another oak-hickory woods, the Bluffs Nature Area above North Main St. features steeply wooded slopes and trails popular among mountain bikers. In the spring, the Redbud Nature Area located off Parkwood Ave. offers easy yet breathtaking hikes through a stand of pink-blossomed redbud This park runs alongside Malletts Creek and is also home to expanses of native bloodroot, wild ginger, and skunk cabbage. On the northwest side of town is Miller Nature Area. Two obscure entranc es on Miller west of Newport drop off immediately into a densely overgrown valley. So many small trails switch direction so quickly that disorientation can set in; plunge ahead and you'll eventually emerge in a quiet neighborhood on Arborview.

The County Farm Park on the east side of town offers 141 acres of lush fields, bush-covered areas, and forest lowlands, home to rabbits, woodchucks, pheasant, and numerous songbird species. It has a playground, picnic pavilions, and three loop trails; longest trail is 1.4 miles and features 18 exercise stations placed along its length.

On the southeast side of town, 80-acre Mary Beth Doyle Park provides picnic tables, a basketball court, swings, paved and unpaved trails, and an 18-hole disc golf course. A wetland preserve, formed by an unusual dam-and-channel system that diverts Mallets Creek, affords opportunities for wildlife viewing year round.

The north side offers 54-acre Olson Park, at Dhu Varren Rd. and Pontiac Tr. Transformed from a gravel pit, Olson includes wetlands, woods, Traver Creek, and Traver Pond, providing a habitat for many species of native plants, butterflies, songbirds, and migratory waterfowl. It has a half-mile paved path surrounding Traver Pond, a basketball court, a picnic shelter with barbecue grills, a dense net of mountain bike trails, and an accessible fishing platform.

Dog Parks

The city and county operate a 10-acre enclosed, off-leash dog park at Swift Run, at the southwest corner of Platt and Ellsworth rds. There's a smaller, enclosed dog run in 54-acre Olson Park, at Dhu Varren Rd. and Pontiac Tr. To use either park, your dog must be licensed and have a dog park tag ($50/year, $35 with proof of spaying/neutering), available from the county treasurer (734-222-6600) or city clerk (734-794-6140).

Nichols Arboretum, 1610 Washington Hts. (734) 647-7600. One of Ann Arbor's most popular spots for more than 100 years, this preserve (part of it owned by the city) occupies 123 acres of land rising dramatically from the Huron River. The forests of the "Arb," crisscrossed by long, winding trails, include tree species from all over the world. Equally treasured are its prairie grasslands, insulated by forest and landform. Gardens include the largest collection of antique and heirloom peonies in North America, which bloom each year in early June about the time of the Arb's annual Shakespeare productions; the Centennial Shrub Collection, with fragrant early-blooming lilacs and other shrubs; and rhododendrons in the shady, restful Heathdale Collection. The Arb's recently restored riverfront is a popular spot for a picnic. Trails are free and open daily sunrise-sunset. The James D. Reader Center (1610 Washington Hts.) has restrooms, maps, guidebooks, and histories for visitors Tues.-Fri. 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m., closed Mon. and weekends; special expanded hours for peony season and Shakespeare in the Arb. mbgna.umich.edu

Healed by Nature

Falling in love with Ann Arbor through its parks

he Elsifor family, one branch or another, has lived in Ann Arbor for four or more generations, but I have lived here for only eight years. When I moved here there was a lot going on in my life that wasn't good so I didn't see anything good, but in time things changed. There are a lot of things in Ann Arbor I have grown to appreciate and look forward to throughout the year. And at the top of that list is Ann Arbor's collection of parks.

I may have explored only half of them, but I have found something in every one that brings a smile to my lips and gladness to my heart. In Ann Arbor's parks, my passion for photography has gotten a workout, and I've even sold some pictures. And I've fallen in love with nature more than once.

I first found my passion for exploring at Mary Beth Doyle Park when I lived off Stone School Rd. Half a dozen trails weave through the woods south of the creek. My favorite comes to a bridge where I often stood to admire Malletts Creek on its way to the Huron River. Though it's a dense residential neighborhood, I was surrounded by the sounds of slapping water, wind in branches, the chattering of small animals, and the rare splash of a fish leaning, it seemed only to show off. The hummingbirds and butterflies were too fast for my little Canon camera, but amazing to watch.

Wondering how much I had missed, not only in Ann Arbor but in the world, I began to explore many of the city's parks. I followed learned that I could still make a good attempt to climb a pretty steep hill. I found more parks to explore and even longer walks. My doctors didn't approve, but I did it anyway—I was in love.

I found my way to Gallup Park, where I found more water to sit by and dream the forgotten dreams of my childhood. I took my favorite picture—which became a poster—of turtles sunning themselves on a log in the river as I made my way toward an unexpected vista of Huron High School. In the other direction I took the path to the county's Parker Mill Park and ventured down both of its trails and across the road to a nature center that looked like something out of Fred Flintstone.

At Gallup Park, I photographed turtles sunning themselves on a log, and took the path to the county's Parker Mill Park.

I've only just begun to explore Ann Arbor's parks, and as a survivor of cancer I may never get the chance to see them all. But Ann Arbor's parks have healed me before, and it may be that they'll do so again.

The Spectacular Slusser

The North Campus gallery is an Ann Arbor treasure.

The U-M's Jean Paul Slusser Gallery is sixty feet square—and twenty feet high. "You can do anything here," says Mark Nielsen, who installs and sometimes curates Slusser shows. "You could hang a car from that grid."

Nielsen says that unlike museums and galleries built by notable architects with defined styles (Frank Gehry, for instance), the Slusser "honors the art by disappearing." With moveable dividing walls, easily accessible floor outlets, state-of-the-art gallery lighting fixtures, and natural daylight streaming through a window wall, the flexible space doesn't impose a style, enabling the installer to create an ambiance for each show.

The Slusser opened in 1975 to host faculty, student, and alumni shows, as well as exhibitions of nationally acclaimed painters, sculptors, photographers, and artists who work in mixed-media. An annual major exhibition features prominent contemporary work.

Usually the work of several artists is on display; sometimes, the huge gallery is given over to just one. Solo shows have included Running the Numbers, Chris Jordan's large-scale images that portray specific quantities: two million plastic bottles, for instance, representing the number used every five minutes in the U.S, and 106,000 aluminum cans, consumed in 30 seconds. The photographs of Alden Reis documented the physical and emotional pains of people with multiple sclerosis. Jennifer Karady interviewed veterans of the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan, staged shoots that recreated their experiences in large-scale color photographs, and displayed them accompanied by a sound installation of recordings of the veterans recounting their experiences.

For the exhibit Bottom Feeders and the Distant

Self, grad student Trevor King brought together artists from Michigan and elsewhere in a multi-disciplinary effort to "experiment, interrupt, and expand the definition of 'self-portrait.'" South African artist Mary Sibande's costumed sculptural figures became the focus of an examination of race, gender, and class at the Institute of the Humanities. The mix of work from different university communities, as well as from the great art world beyond, makes for a vital space. —Davi Napoleon

Feeding Crows

Volunteering at the Bird Center

The things I've done to get birds to eat.

I've donned a hand puppet resembling a crow to offer chunks of raw meat to a real fledgling American Crow.

Using tweezers, I've fed wriggling mealworms to a nestling Carolina Wren.

I've prepared mouthwatering platters of diced strawberries, blueberries, and grapes for adult American Robins.

Countless times, I've answered the call of a hungry young bird with a feeding syringe filled with liquid bird food.

As a volunteer for the Bird Center of Washtenaw County, I've stared into the open mouths of hundreds of birds, from tiny hatchlings whose eyes have yet to open, to fledglings beginning to eat on their own. I won't call myself a momma bird, but my experiences, endlessly surprising and gratifying, have included opportunities to see and hear dozens of wild species throughout their development.

While I enjoy feeding birds, I wish there weren't a need for this task. The Bird Center exists to care for injured or orphaned wild songbirds, which are admitted for a variety of reasons. Nests are destroyed. Cats attack. Birds crash into windows clear as air. The Bird Center strives to rehabilitate and release each bird it receives, tailoring its methods and diets to suit the particular needs of each species. In order to keep the birds "wild," the center follows practices that limit the possibilities for a young bird to imprint on humans, or develop an attachment to people. That's why we use the puppet when interacting with young crows, which are highly social and impressionable.

The Bird Center was founded as a nonprofit organization in 2004 by Carol

A young Great Crested Flycatcher opens wide for a tasty mealworm at the Bird Center of Washtenaw County (Animal Welfare).

Akerlof, who serves as its executive director and licensed rehabilitator. Akerlof and other volunteers cared for birds in their homes before the center moved to its current location, a city-owned polling station near the U-M athletic campus.

The center admits approximately 1,000 birds between May and early fall, so it needs (and values) all the help it can get. In addition to feeding birds, we clean birds' baskets and tidy and maintain the building. No experience is necessary, since staff and other trained volunteers provide hands-on instruction. Other volunteer opportunities include shopping for food and supplies, as well as hosting a flight cage on your property. Flight cages are large outdoor enclosures designed to prepare a young bird for release by providing it with a protected space to acclimate to the outside.

If you're at least sixteen years old and want to volunteer, email Diane Hein-Beutel at volunteercoordinator@gmail. com. And if you find an injured or orphaned bird, call the Bird Center's help-line between 7 a.m. and 9 p.m. at (734) 761–9640.
